Coach: Winston Smith		Date: 11/12/2024
Client: Sarah Roberts
ICF Competency	Comments
1. Meeting ethical guidelines and professional standards	I think my wellness professional was ethical. I don't know too much about the standards, but I know that he said he would not be able to prescribe me a meal plan since he was not a registered dietitian.
2. Establishing the coaching agreement	I signed a pretty specific contract. I knew that if I didn't give enough notice to reschedule, I would still owe for the session I missed.
3. Establishing trust and intimacy with the client	He let me know that our sessions and my information would be confidential.
4. Coaching presence	He was definitely present in all of our sessions and made an effort to reach out to me when we were not in sessions. He did a good job holding me accountable.
5. Active listening	I always felt like he was listening to me. Sometimes he was able to answer my question before I was even done asking it.
6. Powerful questioning	He definitely asked me a lot of questions. I felt they were easy to answer with a yes or a no.
7. Direct communication	Winston was very direct. I was never left guessing what he meant. There was no confusion.
8. Creating awareness	He definitely did a good job educating me on the information that would affect my goals. Knowing what I know now has been extremely helpful in being able to reach my goals.
9. Designing actions	He always did a good job giving me "homework" and would often remind me of what I should be doing outside of our sessions.
10. Planning and goal setting	He was very thorough with the goal setting. He took my very big goal and broke it down into many smaller goals. It made me feel like the goal it set was actually attainable.
11. Managing progress and accountability	He did a great job evaluating my progress and evaluating my goals at our sessions. He would make sure that my goals were realistic but still challenging and made sure that I did not slack off.

Three things coach did well (give specific examples):

Winston did a great job with making my goals specific. He was also very good about keeping in touch with me and did not just wait to talk to my at our sessions, that really helped keeping me motivated. Also, he was really professional and had really detailed notes about my progress which was especially important when I felt like I wasn't doing well. He went over my progress and pointed out that I was doing well and should not feel so down on myself.

Three areas of learning for coach:

I don't know, I think he did great.

Any other comments:

Winston rocks!
