

YOUR FIRST 10 CLIENTS

How to Go from Certification to Practicing Professional

GOAL OF TODAY

Help you move from learning to doing while avoiding the common mistakes we all have made before you.

AGENDA

YOUR FIRST CLIENTS

Know the Goal
Creating Boundaries
Managing Imposter Syndrome

CREATING A COACHING SYSTEM

Defining a Coaching System
Start Simple
Refine

DEVELOPING COMMUNICATION SKILLS

Your #1 Tool
The Communication Triad

REFRAMING THE SALES MINDSET

Sales = Help
Sales is Invitation
Sell within Your Ethos

KNOW THE GOAL

BUILD SKILLS

- Assessments
- Consultation
- Communication
- Problem Solving
- Customer Service

GAIN CONFIDENCE

- Create Evidence
- Build Competence
- Develop Authority

TEST SYSTEMS

- Testing Mindset
- Get Feedback
- Iterate on Process
- Be Flexible

CREATE REFERRALS

- Get Client Success
- Develop WOM
- Create Referral Process

CREATE BOUNDARIES

Your Professional
Practice
Boundaries

IMPOSTER SYNDROME

- Imposter syndrome is normal.
- Competence leads to confidence.
- Lean on systems.
- Focus on the basics.
- Build an undeniable stack of evidence that you are who you say you are.

CREATE A SYSTEM (OVERVIEW)

CREATE A SYSTEM

DEFINE A COACHING SYSTEM

Create a repeatable framework

Make it clear to clients

Follow it closely

START SIMPLE

Create a simple framework

The goal is to learn quickly

Complicated makes it harder to learn and adjust

REFINE

Collect feedback as you go

Adjust quickly

Iterate and improve

COMMUNICATION AS THE #1 TOOL

*COACHING IS NOT JUST ABOUT WHAT YOU
KNOW—IT'S ABOUT HOW YOU CONNECT.*

COMMUNICATION

There are no exact words, sentences, or conversations that make you an effective communicator. Instead, there are concepts and frameworks around effective communication that you can use to develop your specific style of effective communication.

THE COMMUNICATION TRIAD

PROACTIVE COMMUNICATION

- Be Observant: Identify problems before the client brings them up.
- Be Prepared: Offer solutions and strategies.
- Be Supportive: Make the client feel reassured, guided, and still on track.

ACTIVE LISTENING

- Be Fully Engaged: Eliminate distractions (no phones or computers).
- Give Affirmations: Physical (nod), Verbal (“I hear you”), Emotional (“I know that feeling can be difficult”).
- Mirror and Summarize: Reiterate what they say and summarize so they know you are active in the conversation.

EMPATHY

- Acknowledge Feelings:
“I understand how frustrating it can feel to put in the effort and not get results.”
- Validate Without Judgement:
Recognize challenges while reassuring they are not alone.
- Encourage Small Wins:
“It’s incredible that you followed your nutrition plan today despite stress at work.”.

COMMUNICATION

“Hi Mark, I was reviewing your last couple of check-ins and noticed your rate of progress has slowed a bit. That’s completely normal at this stage, and I want you to know it doesn’t mean things aren’t working. To help us stay on track, I went ahead and mapped out a few adjustments we can use including swapping some of your evening snacks with higher-protein, lower-calorie options. Would you like me to walk you through these options on a call, or would you prefer I just outline them in your next check-in feedback?”

SALES MINDSET

SALES IS HELPING PEOPLE

SALES IS AN INVITATION

SALES HAS INTEGRITY

SALES HAS AUTHENTICITY

SALES IS HELPING PEOPLE

- Sales isn't about pressure; it is about service.
- We are helping people become the best version of themselves

SALES IS AN INVITATION

- Sales is not “closing”.
- We are guiding people.
- We are inviting them to become the best version of themselves.

SALES HAS INTEGRITY

- Stay aligned with your values and beliefs.
- Authenticity builds long-term trust.
- Clients sense genuine care vs pressure.

SALES HAS AUTHENTICITY

- Sell what you believe in.
- Welcome people into your world.
- Share your story.
- Don't sell what the “gurus” tell you to sell.

SUMMARY

YOUR FIRST CLIENTS

Know the Goal
Creating Boundaries
Managing Imposter Syndrome

CREATING A COACHING SYSTEM

Defining a Coaching System
Start Simple
Refine

DEVELOPING COMMUNICATION SKILLS

Your #1 Tool
The Communication Triad

REFRAMING THE SALES MINDSET

Sales = Help
Sales is Invitation
Sell within Your Ethos

HANDOUTS

- Coaching System Checklist
- Imposter Syndrome Action Plan
- Your First 10 Clients: Starter Framework

QUESTIONS?