

When you're writing an email, messaging should be short and to the point. But emails are more than words – make sure to include a banner image, your logo, a catchy headline, and a call-to-action button that shows readers what you want them to do next.

Here's a template with a few tips to get you started.

Here's where your logo and an eye-catching banner image should go.

This a catchy headline. It's short and draws people in!

Hello,

This is where you'll tell the reader what you want and why. Get to the point quickly and consider including things like:

- The purpose of the survey
- Why they should participate (is there an incentive?)
- How long the survey will take
- When they should respond by

Provide a call-to-action in the form of a button that is clear and concise.

TAKE THE SURVEY

Thank you for sharing your thoughts. We value your feedback and hope you've enjoyed engaging with us!

Click here to opt out.